

Marcia Lenz, PT, BS, DPT

Physical Therapist

I started my career following my first college experience as a Recreation Therapist, working with adults with developmental disabilities in New York. Drawing upon my experience as a swimming instructor during my college years, I was also working in a therapy pool with my clients. I later moved from recreation and from NY to several locations until moving to Maine, where I earned my Master's degree in Physical Therapy, a discipline I always knew I wanted to work in. I have found, whether working in schools, in the clinic, or working therapeutically in the pool, I have been able to draw upon my varied experiences when working with children. I love seeing children challenge themselves and make improvements in their skills when it is something they want to be able to achieve!
